

Scientists Who Believe the Bible

Have you ever seen a person wearing a bullet-proof (resistant) vest? Did you know that such protective clothing is made with a special synthetic fibre which is 10% stronger than steel by weight? And one of the scientists who holds patents related to its production is Dr Patrick H.Young, B.S., Ph.D. He is a professional chemist whose work has made a difference to the modern world. And he is a Bible-believing Christian who does not believe that life evolved from a primordial soup!

In an interview he said, “I’ve read a great deal on that; it’s clearly a gross over-simplification to state that if some simulated lightning is put into a beaker and creates some amino acids, you are on the way to making life. One needs to realise that to go further from this point your experiment would need to have developed only certain specific types of amino acids, either the dextrorotatory (‘right-handed’) or the laevorotatory (‘left-handed’) type – and guess what?! That doesn’t happen – nobody has been able to do that, and so the ‘primordial soup’ belief system has absolutely no scientific evidence to support it.” Instead he believes in the Creator God revealed in Genesis. “The whole world of chemistry is a well-behaved world...To me, that’s evidence of design and a designer right there!” So, yet another scientist believes!
